TO TEACHERS.

As in all narration there is of necessity some connecting medium, so, through these lessons runs the thread of time, upon which are placed, in their order, events of our national history.

The special merit claimed for this compilation lies in such arrangement of the questions as shall leave upon the mind a clear-cut impression, in which prominent points are given due eminence, and unimportant ones occupy their proper places.

The subject is divided into seven periods; occurrences in these are presented in chronological order. In the reviews at the close of each epoch, this sequence of events is not followed, but questions are upon such incidents as may need to be emphasized. By this method pupils gain experience which may be valuable when undergoing the Regents examinations, as their papers necessarily are made up of questions concerning unrelated periods. The reviews are also designed to throw side-lights upon historic occasions, and to bring to view the relation between cause and effect, as upon that depends largely, the worth of a book of this nature.

The Manual, in connection with any text-book, may supplement the daily work of the teacher; and relief from laborious black-board work will follow the placing of the books in the hands of pupils to be used in the regular class drill.

There are no "catch" questions; should one occasionally appear which is not fully answered by the text-book, interest may be aroused by requiring students to find out the facts for themselves, thereby acquiring one of the kinds of knowledge mentioned in the famous saying of Dr. Samuel Johnson: "There are two kinds of knowledge; to know a thing ourselves, or, to know where to find information upon a subject."

The matter of the French and Spanish settlements in North America, is touched upon here only as these bear upon the history of the United States; but so lately as January, 1902, the importance and extent of the French occupation of our western country were vividly recalled by the announcement upon that date was erased from the map of the United States—by the postal authorities—the name of Kaskaskia. Before the planting of the last of the English-American colonies, this flourishing French capital is said by historians "to have been to Illinois what Paris is at this day to France."

Much painstaking research and verification have been given to the work which is brought down to the present year. In addition to the book proper, a supplementary chapter upon New York—Colony and State—is given. As this required the consulting of authorities not easily accessible, the answers follow the questions in this chapter.

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTIONS.

NEW YORK.

COLONY AND STATE.

1. What voyager, probably first entered New York bay ?

Ans. From a letter written by Giovanni da Verrazano to Francis I, King of France, it is inferred that that Florentine Commander cruised along the Atlantic coast and entered New York bay, in his ship the Dalfina (Dauphine) in the spring of 1524.

2. Were the Dutch the first traders within the territory now known as New York ?

Ans. That belief is generally accepted, but Fiske says that the French had traded with the Indians ever since Verrazano's voyage, and had built a fort on an island a few miles south of Albany.

3. Who was William Usselinex; what organization was suggested by him ?

Ans. An enterprising merchant of Antwerp; to organize a West India Company for the purpose of trade, and also to annoy Spain.

4. For what purpose did the Dutch engage the services of the English Commander, Henry Hudson ?

Ans. To find a north-west passage around the American continent.

5. Give the name of his ship; the time consumed in the voyage; where did he cast anchor ?

The Half Moon; he sailed on the fourth of April, 1609, and anchored within Sandy Hook on September third. According to Indian tradition a boat's crew who landed on the beach of Congee (Coney Island,) were the first Europeans to tread the shore of the harbor.

6. How far did the Half Moon ascend the river ?

On the nineteenth of September Hudson anchored near the present site of Albany; returning he sailed out to sea the fourth of October.

7. By what name was Long Island known at the time of the discovery of the Hudson river ?

It was called Sewan-hack from Sewan (shells, wampum) and hacking (land), the Indians of the island being the principal manufacturers of that currency.
